Rayures Long Neck Medium Vase

Lines of black and frosted glass bring the Rayures Long-Neck Medium Vase a stunning texture that was created with a marvellous glass technique. The mouth-blown glass vase is made from two layers, a clear glass underneath that is fully covered by a solid black glass. The pieces are then taped so that the black glass is protected where it is not to be removed when they are sandblasted to reveal the clear glass beneath. The amount of work and skill required to create these is rigorous. We have a number of shapes in the Rayures family of black vases.
