Charcoal Table Lamp

Appearing as if it has a painterly surface, one with naïve brushstrokes that could have been fashioned by a child, the body of the Charcoal Table Lamp, designed by Aimee Kurzner, is made of dark Gray bone and composite. The pattern that flows along the columnar base creates a sense of movement that makes this Gray lamp special. The pared-down profile leaves the curving motifs to make their mark, while the off-white linen drum shade douses the lamp's body with illumination.
