Caldwell Table Lamp

To celebrate the design prowess with which Tom Caldwell approaches all of his ideas, the Caldwell Table Lamp is officially one of his most classic. The architectonic stem that composes the slim profile has a bee-hive ornament at its middle point and culminates at the optic crystal base in three concentric rings that grow as they meet the stacked material. The pointed finial is a clever touch, as it looks as if the stem pierced the shade uninterrupted. Finishing the metal with an antique brass finish brings the gold table lamp warmth, as does the bone linen shade with its suave narrow profile.
