Caldwell Brass Floor Lamp

To celebrate the design prowess with which Tom Caldwell approaches all of his ideas, the Caldwell Floor Lamp is officially one of his most classic. The architectonic stem that composes the slim profile has two bee-hive ornaments and culminates at the base in three concentric rings that grow as they meet it, the stacked metal and optic crystal support a refined touch. The pointed finial is a also clever introduction, as it looks as if the stem pierced the shade uninterrupted. Finishing the metal with antique brass brings the gold floor lamp warmth, as does the bone linen shade with its suave narrow profile.
