Partita Pendant

The Partita Pendant is a natural material story through and through. The illumination is softened from the sides and the bottom by grasscloth that shows off its subtle texture when the light filters through it. Surrounding the shade is a rattan pattern that flows elegantly without seeming to begin or end. The process to create this ornamentation is painstaking, as the rattan is steamed and bent by hand, then bound together with thin bands of the same material. To be consistent with the overall color of the other elements, the wrought iron frame and hardware on the pendant are finished in a saddle tan
